

ActivEnviro supports the good work of our allied organizations working to better our communities.

America Walks applications are open to join this year's Walking College Fellowship Class. Apply now through the end of February.

Now in its tenth year, the Walking College is America Walks' signature training program aimed at strengthening grassroots partnerships to achieve safer, healthier, more accessible streets and communities. The six-month, online program is open to those interested in honing their skills and understanding around improving community design to achieve greater livability and access. Professional and Student Participants are paired with experienced leaders and peers working across the country. Over the course of the program, selected Fellows identify an opportunity they hope to tackle in their communities and develop a blueprint for taking meaningful action to make a difference.
